ENGINEER DROWNED.

F. M. Brown Loses his Life While Exploring the Colorado.

His Boat Capsized While Running through Marble Canon.

Two Other Members of the Party Meet the Same Sad Fate.

Chief Engineer Stanton Telegraphs the News from Utah.

An Engineer Drowned.

DENVER, July 22.—A party of surveyors, headed by Frank M. Brown, left here on May 23d for the purpose of exploring the Colorado river with a view to building a railroad by that route to the Pacific coast. To day the following telegram was received from the expedition:

KANAB, Utah, July 22.

President Frank M. Brown was drowned in the Colorado river in Marble canon July 10 by his boat being capsized while running the rapids. He was thrown into a whirlpool and unable to get out of it, while another man in his boat was thrown into the current and carried down about 600 feet and landed. All the other boats in the expedition went through the rapids safely and my boat reached the point where Brown was thrown one-half hour after the accident happened and less than five seconds after he sank for the last time. Five days after, while working our way down, another boat was driven against a cliff and in pushing it off was upset, and two boatmen, Peter Hasbourough and Henry C. Richards, were both drowned before assistance could reach them. It is impossible to recover any of the bodies.

(Signed) ROBERT B. STANTON,
Chief Engineer.

KANSAS CITY, July 22.—Special Police Officer Henry Call, janitor of the Heaton building, shot and killed Lee White, a negro thief, this morning, in the act of carrying off some plunder. The negro drew a long dirk knife from his pocket and thrust it twice up to the hilt into his captor's breast. He then attempted to escape, but was shot down by an officer who happened to be passing. Call is mortally wounded.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 22.—Jim Averill and a woman living with him as his wife were burned last evening at Sweetwater, Fremont county, by a party of stockmen. Averill kept a resort for cattle thieves and gamblers. He and his woman companion were accumulating a herd of cattle by stealing calves. They were defiant of the law. Last evening forty stockmen surrounded their ranch, took them out and hung them. Averill has had a bad reputation for a number of years, has twice committed murder and was feared in the community in which he lived.

CHEYENNE, Dakota, July 22.—This morning Charger, Little No Heart and Swift Bird signed with a number of their following. White Swan still remains obstinate and no impression so far has been made on him. His band is the largest on the reservation and consists mainly of the old Indians who were for many years held by the war department as prisoners of war. These Indians have made little progress and are unwilling to permit any others to improve. In spite of the opposing efforts, however, the commissioners are slowly progressing. Two hundred and fifty have signed.

NEW YORK, July 22.—Fatty Davies, of Chicago, arrived here to-night. He is stopping at the Continental hotel. At the Hoffman House the person met E. J. Van Horn, a sporting man from North Platte, Mont. Van Horn won $30,000 on Sullivan and began blackguarding Davies, who was a Kilrain man, about the beating he had given Kilrain and Jackson the colored pugilist. Davies became angry and knocked Van Horn down. Davies says Jackson can get $20,000 backing to fight Sullivan. He is here to arrange the fight if possible.

Flurry in Oil.

NEW YORK, July 22.—There was a wild flurry in oil this morning when it was rumored that there would be a corner in August petroleum and in a short time the price went up from 90½ cents to one dollar, which is the highest this year. It then reached one dollar and two cents and became quiet.

CHICAGO, July 22.—The transcontinental association held two sessions here to-day, but did not reach any of the momentous questions which are expected to produce sensational developments. There is a possibility that the quarrel between the Northern and Pacific companies over the Puget sound business may be speedily settled and that the latter will cancel the notice of its withdrawal. The action of the Southern Pacific in giving notice of its withdrawal was brought up, but consideration postponed.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—In a Colorado mineral case pending before him on an appeal from the local land office at Leadville, Colorado, Secretary Noble has directed that the briefs filed by counsel be stricken from the records and returned to them because of the scurrilous and vituperative language directed against each other contained therein. The secretary remands the case for further hearing and then says that when an attorney so forgets the dignity of his profession, the courtesy which should characterize his conduct towards his associates and the duty he owes the department as to print in his brief, insulting epithets and vulgar vituperation as has been done, especially in the last two briefs referred to, the respect due the officers of the law demands that such conduct be severely rebuked.

LONDON, July 22.—In the commons to day the parliamentary secretary of the foreign office stated that no final programme for the maritime conference had been agreed upon with the American government.

The first lord of admiralty announced that the construction of fifty-two war ships had been begun during the current year. Twenty are being built in the government dockyards and thirty-two in private yards.

W. H. Smith, the government leader, laid on the table the report of the committee on royal grants. The report recommends that £9,000 be added to the quarterly allowance of the Prince of Wales. The report maintains the right of the queen to ask parliament to make further provisions for her grandchildren. Debate on the report was postponed until Thursday.

Labouchere in a debate on the grant to Princess Louise on the occasion of her marriage to Earl Fife moved the rejection of the report of the committee and moved to substitute therefor an address to the queen setting among other things that the sums already voted by parliament to the royal family should be amply sufficient for all their proper purposes and that if further supplies are needed they ought to be provided through the relinquishment of expenses of the royal family and not by a fresh demand on the tax payers.

The report of the committee advised that at the proper time a law be passed providing that future sovereigns shall have no claim to parliamentary provisions for their grandchildren.

Gladstone, although he censured the government for its attitude, voted with the majority of the committee on the royal grants.

MAKING NEW STATES.

Work of the Constitutional Conventions now in Session.

The Williams' Constitution Considered a Model Document.

Provisions regarding County and Municipal Government.

Senator Stewart to Talk on Silver and Irrigation To-Day.

C... ...tution Building.

BISMARCK, Dak., July 22.—Williams constitution a synopsis of which was given in the Associated press dispatches last night is the subject of much discussion. All who read it admit that the convention would not make any serious mistake in adopting it, but it is not in harmony with some of the lobbies and must therefore undergo amendment and demoralization if it is not entirely set aside for a new document.

A number of proposed articles were introduced in the convention to day and it was ordered that all standing committees be required to report by Thursday of the present week. This is done to force the convention to business. The event of the day was the consideration of a resolution providing for a single body legislature. The leading champion of the one house idea was Stevens of Ha... who delivered a carefully prepared speech. Rev. Ezra Turner, of Battineau, and Parsons, of Morton, also spoke in favor of the one house plan. The question was discussed in committee of the whole, but the committee rose without reaching a vote.

State Making at Olympia.

OLYMPIA, W. T., July 22.—In the convention to-day a telegram was read from Attorney General Williams saying that Senator Stewart of Nevada would like to deliver an address on irrigation and silver. By a strict party vote of 25 to 7 an invitation was extended to him and he will speak here to-morrow, though he will not have much of an audience as the convention is going to attend a big clam bake extended by the local board of trade.

A petition was presented from teachers asking for the education test for voters. The report of the committee on county and municipal governments provides that no county shall be created with less than 2,000 inhabitants. The debt is to be divided pro rata except for buildings that remain wholly in one of the new counties created by any division, but the rights of present creditors shall not be impaired. It creates the new office of county clerk and provides that except the public administrators, surveyors and coroners, all the officers shall be salaried. The officials are only eligible for two consecutive terms and their salaries cannot be increased or the term of office extended while they are in office. The legislature shall have no power to impose taxes upon counties, towns or municipalities for local purposes, such power being vested in the officers in the local authorities.

Lewis offered a proposition that any public official who accepted a railroad pass should be impeached and become ineligible to an election. This was received with cries of "poor official," and much laughter. An effort was made to get a vote on a report favoring prohibition, but it was postponed until Monday. It has apparently no chance of passing in any shape.

SIOUX FALLS, Dakota, July 22.—Only a few delegates were present to day at the convention, and the session lasted but ten minutes. The only business presented was a resolution instructing the joint committee on the part of South Dakota that in case of any uncertainty as to the location of the seventh standard parallel boundary line between the Dakotas as fixed by the omnibus bill, to come to the best possible agreement with the commission of North Dakota and report the same to the convention.

Life in the West.

KANSAS CITY, July 22.—A special from Albuquerque, N. M., says: Last Saturday three cattle and horse thieves, members of a notorious band of Mexicans, who have committed many depredations in this city, were captured by Deputy Sheriff Lowens and posse and lynched in a vacant house near Kelly, N. M. Before their capture the thieves, three in number, engaged the posse in a battle during which their leader and Deputy Lowens were shot dead. Last night a party of cowboys proceeded to the house where the remaining two thieves were imprisoned, overpowered the guard and hanged the prisoners after riddling them with bullets.

Denver and Rio Grande Western.

SALT LAKE, July 22.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Rio Grande Western railway was held in the company's office in this city to day. Nearly all the stock was represented. The following directors were elected: W. J. Palmer, George Foster Peabody, New York, D. C. Dodge Denver, Joseph D. Potts, New York, Barthold Schlesinger, Boston, Chas. J. Cands, Jos. C. Parish, J. Kennedy Tod, Fred Olcott, New York. With the exception of General Palmer, Colonel Dodge and Mr. Peabody the directory is all new men. The board will meet in New York in a few days and elect officers.

The Sports ...

There was lamentation in base ball circles yesterday, and the city was full of base ball players full of doubt as to their immediate future. The Leadville club had remained over to play the extra game and in the morning the Aspen club came in with the announcement that the Pueblo club had been compelled to disband. It was well understood that the withdrawal of any one club from the organization meant the disruption of the state league. Hence the thirty players collected in the city and the friends of the national game had reason to feel blue. Later in the day however a gleam of light brightened the horizon, as it was announced that probably Trinidad would enter the league in place of Pueblo. Telegraphic communication was opened between the managers of the clubs and citizens of that place. A meeting was held at Trinidad last night, but the result was not learned up to a late hour last night. It is earnestly hoped that Trinidad will come in and save the league. It will be definitely decided to-day. During the remainder of the week the people of Colorado Springs will have an opportunity to see some good playing, however no matter what the outcome of the deal is Manager Gilbard has arranged to play the four scheduled games with Aspen. The Aspen club is undoubtedly the best in the league, except the Colorado Springs and good ball will be the result. It is unfortunate that the league should go to pieces just as our boys are about to take the lead.

BASE BALL.

First Game of the Series Won by the Leadville Club Yesterday.

The Springs boys were probably a little too confident of winning yesterday after the straight run of victories they have been having lately. They played poor ball with the exception of the last inning, when they made four runs and saved the game from being a shut out. They were unable to solve the mystery of Fitzgerald's curves and therefore got only one base hit, while the Leadvilles made eight off of Hapeman the Springs pitcher. Hapeman at times yesterday played very good ball but was rather wild. In the fifth inning he pitched only four balls three of which were hit by the Leadville batters. Elegant fielding put each man out before he reached first base.

Until the last inning the visitors felt very sure of shutting out the Springs and were greatly surprised when the four runs were scored. Then was seen some very tricky playing on the Springs side. The home boys thoroughly understand all the little tricks of the game and when they get down to playing ball they simply paralyze their opponents. Such was the case yesterday when Breckenridge stole second base and let in a run by tricky playing. The visitors were so badly rattled they rushed to the center of the diamond and stood in each other's way. This class of play creates the wildest enthusiasm among the audience, who applauded to the echo yesterday.

A circular from George T. Nicholson, general passenger and ticket agent A. T. & S. F. R. R., states that the roads running from the Missouri river west have authorized a series of "harvest excursions" from all territory west of the Missouri river to all points in Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and other territories. The following particulars are given in regard to this excursion in the circular:

"The rate will be one fare for the round trip.

Tickets will be sold on August 6th and 20th, September 10th and 24th, and October 8th.

The tickets will be limited to thirty days for the round trip.

Stop over privileges will be allowed, either going or returning within this limit.

We have already received assurances that these tickets will be sold from all points west of and including St. Paul, Chicago and St. Louis, and we have good reason to believe that they will be sold by many lines throughout Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, the Southern states, &c.

Of course the railroads will be very liberal in advertising these excursions, but I take the liberty of calling your attention to them, because the territory to which these tickets will be sold is so large, and counter attractions are so great that we need the aid of all local organizations to secure a proper share of the excursionists.

There will undoubtedly be a very heavy business, and it is simply a question of turning them our way as against Dakota or some other territory. To this end I would respectfully suggest the advisability of your calling attention editorially to them, with a view of working up an interest in your community, and that proper advertising matter describing your special attractions and advantages may be prepared promptly. I will be glad to aid in its distribution. Any stations agent of this road will receive and forward free to me packages of pamphlets and other advertising matter which you may publish, and I will see that it is judiciously distributed throughout the territory from which these excursions will run.

In the Alley Behind Every Lot in Parrish's Addition

There is a 3-inch Water Pipe, connected at Chestnut street with a 16-inch main; the Largest in the City's System. THE MAIN CITY DITCH, taking pure, clear water from the Fountain, runs just back of PARRISH'S ADDITION, and within a stone's throw of it.

The Detroit Tribune has a very forcible article on the "Power of Patronage," and uses Michigan as an illustration. The state gave a republican plurality in '84 of about four thousand. At the next election in '86, after all important federal offices had been filled by democrats, the republican plurality was about seventy five hundred. In '88, after Dickinson had been put in the cabinet, the republican plurality jumped to twenty-three thousand. It is [illegible] treated also by the congressional election. Mr. Parnell's name has been prominent in our sketches of the last week in connection with two notable events. The first was the withdrawal of his resolution, at his request, from before the house of commons "Parnell commission." The second was his splendid reception by the loyal and intelligent of the [illegible] subjects, the good people of Pittsburgh. It was significant of the change of public sentiment towards him and his cause. To properly understand the first it is important to have in mind the circumstances under which this commission was appointed. The London Times published certain letters of Parnell to a series of articles on "Parnellism and Crime." Parnell [illegible] the letters in the house of commons as forgeries, and asked for an investigation by his friends. It is the first legislative body that we have ever heard of that has declined to investigate to a request of this kind. Had a legislative body in this country done the same, it would have lost the respect of every decent person. But parliamentary decorum to carry [illegible] a good ways further in England. Finally the commission was appointed, with powers so great that in case the letters could not be proved genuine, Mr. Parnell could still be injured by connection of him in some way with the agitation crimes in Ireland. It put Mr. Parnell in a very uncertain position, but he accepted it. It is well remembered how effectively he proved the letters to be forgeries. The proof was so overwhelming and [illegible] that that part of the case was given up. But the commission went on investigating the land league and trying to connect it with certain crimes. All papers connected with this league, all correspondence of Mr. Parnell was demanded by the commission at the request of the attorney general. This was all submitted to, because it was expected that a searching latitude would be given to Parnell in hooking up the conspiracy. But when Houston, who obtained the letters from Pigott was asked certain vital questions by Sir Charles Russell, the court held that he need not answer them. This was unfair and was in strange contrast to the range of questions which the attorney general was permitted to ask Mr. Parnell. But Sir Charles Russell gave way because he expected to prove the same thing through the books of the "Loyal and Patriotic Union," a unionist organization opposed to the land league. He offered to show by these books that Mr Pigott was not only the author of the letters, but was the author of the articles published under the name of "Parnellism and Crime." There was no question about the relevancy of these books to the inquiries. In fact they had a more direct bearing on the whole issue than the books of the land league which were demanded. But the commission denied the request of Sir Charles Russell that these books be produced. Mr Parnell then very properly left the commission. Whatever verdict the commission may make now, it will not be received by the world, generally, with very much respect. Mr. Parnell, however, is still in its hands. It is nearly three months since his examination. But in order that every chance to injure him might be improved, his cross examination has been continued and he has not been permitted to finish it.

Note of Durin, [illegible] Authors

Among the curious facts which we find in perusing the biographies of great men, are the circumstances connected with the composition of the works which have made them immortal.

[illegible] wrote his first novels in full dress; Milton, before commencing his great work, invoked the influence of the Holy Spirit, and prayed that his lips might be touched with a live coal from off the altar; Chrysostom meditated and studied while contemplating a painting of St. Paul.

[illegible] knelt down before composing his great work, and prayed for light from heaven. Pope never could compose well without first declaiming for some time at the top of his voice, and then pounding his [illegible] system to his fullest activity.

[illegible] after playing a prelude on the organ, or while taking his "ante-jentacular" or "post prandial" walks, he found in the solitude of nature something more profound and suggestive than anything he could find in books.

Cervantes composed his verses with the roar of battle in his ears, for the Portuguese poet was a soldier, and a brave one, though a poet. He composed others of his most beautiful verses at a time when his Indian slave was begging a subsistence for him in the streets.

Luther, when studying, always had his dog at his feet. An array of crucifixes stood on the table before him, and the walls of his study were stuck around with caricatures of the pope. He worked at his desk for days together without going out, but when fatigued he would take his flute or guitar with him into the porch and there extemporize musical fantasy. Music was his favorite solace at such times. Indeed he rather did not hesitate to say that after theology music was the first of arts, "the only other art," he said, "which, like theology, can calm the agitations of the soul and put the devil to flight."

Calvin studied on his bed. Every morning at five or six o'clock he had books, manuscripts and papers carried to him there and he worked on for hours together. If he had occasion to go out on his return he undressed and went to bed again to continue his studies.

Cujas, another learned man used to study when laid all his length on the carpet, his face towards the floor, and there he reveled amid piles of books.

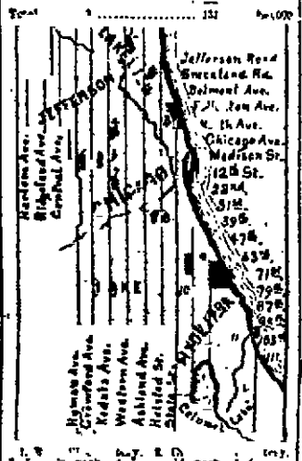
Richelieu amused himself in the intervals of labor with a squadron of cats of which he was very fond. He used to retire at 11, and after sleeping three hours rise and write or work. His annual expenditure was £170,000 sterling.

CHICAGO HAS 1,100,000

[illegible] Population [illegible] Suburbs with 250,000

Chicago now claims to be the second city in the United States in population and the largest in area, and serious rivals say that if it had been a little more moderate in the assertion it would still be behind New York, if not Brooklyn. And yet the area annexation may be found to be justified for the future, if care [illegible] with the proper and their [illegible] to be [illegible] by large majority. Nor is the [illegible] so great, relatively, as it [illegible]. Here are the areas and populations of the principal [illegible]:

	Area Sq. Miles	Population
Hyde Park	[illegible]	[illegible]
Lake	36	[illegible]
Lake View	14	[illegible]
[illegible]	31	10,000
[illegible]	9	1,000
Total	132	[illegible]



[illegible]

As Chicago proper [illegible] contained 420,000 people, it [illegible] and had 1,000,000 people, it [illegible] that the population of the city across 1,700,000 [illegible] and has 1,100,000 people. It is [illegible] of The Chicago Tribune, but [illegible] put the total at 1,200,000. They at the time [illegible] the population of [illegible] kept it at [illegible] a million while the population of the city [illegible] this [illegible] per cent [illegible] that of Chicago. As to Brooklyn all admit that its total does not greatly, if at all, [illegible] 1,800,000.

But in the matter of rapid growth, long [illegible], Chicago so far [illegible] all [illegible] successor [illegible] Indianapolis [illegible] a [illegible] for consideration. San Francisco [illegible] made [illegible] for a short time. New York has [illegible] for a [illegible] time, New Orleans had its [illegible] and [illegible] was [illegible] solidly built from the start. But Chicago is the only city which has enjoyed a "[illegible] right straight along" for a third of a century. Not only did it [illegible] every [illegible], but since 1870 there has been a rapid increase in the proportion of [illegible] in the population of the country. [illegible] ratio on a [illegible] It was [illegible] the only city in America which was passed by the census [illegible] to have made [illegible] in 1880 than its own [illegible] had claimed.

And yet it was a long while getting started on this [illegible] there was a time when Chicago was its rival and almost its superior, while New York laughed at the pretensions of all three of them. The first [illegible] of the place was "Fort Chicagou," in 1673, and it remained a French trading post about [illegible] years. In 1804 the United States built Fort Dearborn there, and on Aug. 15, 1812, the garrison was [illegible] by the Pottawatomie Indians [illegible] Fort Dearborn remained a post till 1837, and then it recreated the present village of the present Chicago. The town was [illegible] Aug. 10, 1833, having 560 souls and having 350 inhabitants and property valued at $70,000.

March 4, 1837, the place was incorporated as a city, having 4,170 people, and William B. Ogden as first mayor. In 1840 the federal census gave the city 4,853 people, 22,987 in 1850, 112,172 in 1860, 298,977 in 1870, and nearly twice as many in 1880. [illegible] to disprove the claim of the [illegible] that the 50 per cent of increase [illegible] the last [illegible] the industries of the city indicate it. Though a vast army of builders push construction with [illegible] rapidity, aided by the best appliances of modern building, they [illegible] in outrunning the demand for stores and [illegible] and if there is a strike in the building [illegible] even for a fortnight there is a loud outcry that the existing [illegible] are [illegible] that the strike must be settled in some way and building [illegible].

At each [illegible] review of the city's growth since the revival of 1870 did many of the cautious have said "The maximum is [illegible] Chicago's day of rapid growth is over," yet the succeeding growth has been still more rapid. A few facts may suffice. Take a radius of 900 miles and describe a circle from a point that far north of the city westward, southward and eastward again and there will be an area of nearly a million square miles containing more raw material for the [illegible] and maintenance of [illegible] than any other [illegible] of equal area on the globe. Of [illegible] natural gateway and receptacle all its railway extensions into such more distant territory and it does not seem unreasonable that the city should maintain its present rate of growth till the close of the century.

Most of the great cities of the country, however, once [illegible] (?) [illegible] population. Natural boundaries forbid New York city may [illegible] a little [illegible] the only [illegible] Manhattan Island [illegible] up in the air, or dig down into the rock. Little by little, however, East river is being reduced from a [illegible] obstruction and [illegible] only, and two additional bridges are built and a tunnel [illegible] Brooklyn will be speedily and conveniently

Yesterday afternoon about 5 30, Willie, the ten year old son of Joseph G who lives in a tent near Weber street and Vermijo avenue, was badly burned by an explosion of coal oil. The boy was lighting some kindling in a stove and used oil to hasten the fire. Not satisfied with the result of the first application of oil he poured more on from a large can. The fire caught the oil and an explosion ensued which scattered the burning fluid over the boy and inside of the tent. The boy rushed into the street screaming with pain. The prompt arrival of a neighbor with a blanket, which he wrapped around the child extinguished the fire. He is badly burned and his recovery is very doubtful. After carrying the boy to the tent medical assistance was immediately summoned and Dr. Garnett arrived and made the injured boy as comfortable as possible. The fire in the tent was extinguished before there was any serious damage

The contract for cobbling the dirt on Tejon street, between the two parks, has been let to Mr. S. T. Hicks, and already the stones are heaped with piles of the stone. The contract price is 13½ cents per square foot, and the work will cost some $660 Bell & Kinney will dress the side walks. The councilmen say that they started in with the idea that almost any one could do the work, but they soon learned that if it was to be done properly it must be done by someone with experience and they believe they have the right parties at work.

The addition to The Elk hotel is rapidly nearing completion. A substantial elevator has been put in which will connect the various floors Already applications have been made for apartments in the new part as at present all the rooms available are occupied Workmen are busy finishing all the halls in the building The two ladies owning this hotel well deserve the abundant share of business they have received—the result of their careful and personal management

The application for sleeper berths on the special Ogden excursion train which leaves this city at 11 30 to night has been quite large A Pullman sleeper has been engaged officially for passengers from this city. It will be placed on a siding at the D & R G depot so that occupants may take their berths early in the evening Berth tickets can be had at the D & R G city office No 8 Pike's Peak avenue The fare for the round trip is $20

The services in the new Congregational church were conducted as announced on Sunday, and both meetings were well attended. The acoustic properties of the building are all that could be desired, and the members of the congregation are greatly pleased with their new church home

The local bicycle record was probably broken yesterday Dr Chamberlain, C C Hoyt and Manager Witten of the Western Union office coasted from Green Mountain Falls to this city in forty minutes All these gentlemen ride safeties and are probably the three best riders in this section of country

Do not forget the fair and concert for the Bellevue Sanitarium on Thursday and Friday next Tickets for the concert 50 cents, at The Antlers, Consolidated book store and circulating library, 158 North Tejon street No raffling allowed on either day.

The corner stone of the new Episcopal church at Colorado City was laid on Sunday afternoon by Rev Mr Wellis of Manitou, Rev Mr Kieffer of this city and Rev Mr Ballam of Golden Mr Samuel Caldwell has the contract for the erection of the building

DR. HOLT'S FIRST PATIENT.

It Was a Lady and He Had to Thrash Her Husband

And So He Won His Confidence—He Whips His Rivals in Slabville After That and Gets All of Their Business

"Wonder if that fellow will ever get a call?"

This bit of speculation was often heard in Slabville and it referred to a young physician named Ezra P. Holt. He had just graduated with honors but set in his office with never a case to fight up the gloom of his disappointment. At night, while deep in the study of his books, he could hear the "click" that summoned the bookless swamp doctor to the bedside of an influential citizen and at noon, when he went to the town hall, he heard the railroad section foreman of the livery stable speak in his presence of "Doc" Sanders, an age into whose presence he could not have dissembled the earliest symptoms of catarrh from the fine development of glanders. Shortly after arriving in Slabville Dr. Ezra P. Holt had attempted to deliver a lecture. Not nobody came to hear him, and he turned away from the clap board hall, he heard the "click" the snort of the swamp doctor and admired the contemptuous buckle of "Doc" Sanders

He was decided to try advertising. In the Slabville Eagle he could get any shade of common letter at three cents a line, but he could not afford the expense involved by the insertion of two lines a week, so he got on the editor he said.

"Sir, I know the great influence of your journal"

"You bet we've got the circulation"

"Yes, I know that, and I would like to make your family physician and take my pay in local notices"

"I'LL BET HE WORKED THE INN ROLLER.

"We don't need no doctor in our house whenever anything gits the matter with one of the children, wife she goes out in the woods and digs up yarbs and makes the medicine. No, don't want a family physician. I tried one once and he stole a new coat that cost me three dollars and a half in subscription money"

He was not to be thus put down, he was a man of resources. "Look here" he said, "you have to hire a boy to roll ink for the type. Now give me that job and I will take it out in advertising."

The editor was delighted; he hired Ezra's boy. All that night the boy inked the type. And in the morning Ezra was surprised Jim worked the hand press and at daylight was ready for "hollow" that morning the Swamp doctor to the bedside of a patient miles off. He was met by the voice of Ezra's Jim, yelling:

"Hey! you striker dat roller!"

The issue of the Eagle was ready. Dr. Ezra P. Holt was the first physician in the town. Calling, with surprise, that he had never lost a case, or received a cent in the incident he set to work to dust a patient. Thus week after week was filled out about, but no call came. The Swamp doctor and "Doc" Sanders had continued to ride night and day. At night the "boys" would meet in Ezra's office and spit tobacco on the floor. They told of numerous times that the other doctors had called, and of them were cruel enough to suggest to Ezra that he should go into the business and get office as a student.

One evening Stephen Barker, a small farmer and Justice of the Peace, drove into town. His wife, he said, had been taken with cramp colic and he thought he must have a doctor at once. He was the only person in town at the time, and old Stephen called upon him.

"I want you to come out and see my wife, old Stephen."

"What's the matter with her, Steve, and what's ailing her?"

"Tell you when I get there, Doc, and bring the right stuff along with you, mind."

"Why, oh yes," Ezra replied, trying to remember. "I am a doctor and you know my excitement, for as this is the first call I have ever received I"

"Well I on dat, sah; hole on. Does you mean to say you ain't been to see no sick people yet?"

"Yes, but"

"Well I on dat, sah. Dat'll do for me. If you ain't been to see no sick people yet I reckon you know what I want. I want you to come out and see my wife, old Stephen."

"Well then, if you don't want to lose your reputation you'd better take a doctor."

"The game is closed," said the old man, and Ezra began to roll up his sleeves. "Giving fight for my wife o' dis yere bosom an' dis yere"

The next moment Ezra had seized him. They "scuffled" around and finally he knocked down the wash stand and smashed the stove. The stove-pipe fell and gave old Stephen a terrible whack on the head, and when he withdrew one hand from the counter and began to rub his wool, Ezra, seizing the other, threw him on the floor. But he was not yet 1 1, for the old man was powerful, and once or twice he half-way arose with his antagonist in another moment he might have fled, but just then a jar coming from the hotel and a chicken with three legs from a shelf and was put of 1 6n old Stephen's head

"Hole on, boss, hole on sah. I done" "hittin' and scratchin, but when it comes to fingerin' pigeon water an' chickens in the way I personally draws in my paws. You can go to see de lady, sah. My wife is a lady, I tell you, sah. My wife is a lady, I tell you, sah. Ezra had at length, and straight on for we ain't got time to waste. I'm a lady, I tell you, sah. Dat lady is dead by dis time, I know."

The next morning just as Ezra was returning he met the swamp doctor in the street, and thus accosted him

"Wait a minute I've got business with you"

"What business with me?"

"Yes, I'm going to whip you"

He jumped on the swamp doctor and just as he had mounted him Doc Sanders came along

"I have business with you, too!" Ezra exclaimed

"Doc Sanders being an accommodating man, threw out his tobacco, spat on his hands and entered into a transaction of the business, but as soon as ill used that he was"

I visited Slabville several weeks ago and at midnight I heard the "hallo" that summoned Dr. Ezra P. Holt to the side of a promising patient, Orpa P. Swan.

FASHION NOTES.

Parasols of white surah, with ivory or light colored carved wood handles, are in high favor

The "fore and aft" jockey cap of white flannel or corduroy is again worn with boating and yachting costumes

The French toque is much smaller than those worn here It has a long, flat crown, only two inches high in front and sloping toward the back.

English women favor the mannish-looking Henley shirts, with starched shirt bosoms fastened by studs, and worn with a vest like those worn by men.

The universally becoming Tam O'Shanter cap of white wool, hand crocheted or knitted, is still favored for tennis, yachting and boating.

Young ladies of fashion wear Eton jackets of cloth, with half fitting mutton-leg sleeves very fully puffed about the arm, over corsets of dark foulard.

In Paris the use of black trim is carried to the extent of adding black mutton leg sleeves to blue, pink or green costumes which are trimmed with black ribbon or lace.

Tennis-players should invariably wear rubber soled tennis shoes as it is nearly impossible to play well with those that have heels, the latter being very dangerous to the grounds of the court.

New sailor hats to wear with yachting suits consist of a brim of straw, the crown being covered with the cloth of the suit, drawn over it in heavy folds, the only trimming being a wing gull, which is thrown back, with the head downward and tail hanging toward the back.

A charming variation of the straight, full skirt was one laid in plaits from the waist to the knee, the fullness of the skirt in front, of course, being forced to a point which grad ually rises upward at the side, ending in a plaine factor below the belt.

PRE-WAR W

COLO. SPRINGS, COLO., July 20, 1889

To the Editor of the GAZETTE.

DEAR SIR—I realize the difficulties under which the contractor who is putting up the new bank building labors, yet it is evident that by a very little care a passage way might be made along Pike's Peak avenue which would obviate the necessity which now exists for pedestrians to go rain or shine, dust or mud, through the middle of the street. It is a trespass upon the good nature of the community thus to make him, one of the most travelled thoroughfares of the city Respectfully.

A CITIZEN.

The Rev L C Smith, of the Methodist Episcopal church, will hold a service at Falcon Sunday, August 28th, at 2.30 p m, with a view to establishing a Methodist Episcopal society in that place

Among the distinguished arrivals in our city may be noted the wife and son of Hon L. Bradford Prince, governor of New Mexico. They are the guests of Capt. Stedman and will remain several days.
